he was just as funny. And everybody in the cast seemed to hit the people, for there was hardly a moment when there was not laughter or applause going on. There were plenty of songs that caught on, and the specialties seemed to have been well selected. It is not at all a bad sign of the times that "A Hot Old Time" makes more money than the high literary or intelligent play. There never was an age when people would not laugh at that kind of a show, and it is free from offense."

THOUGHT THE BISHOP AN ACTOR

"That story about my being mistaken for the advance man of a theatrical company is very much of a slander," said Bishop Millsap, who presides over the diocese of Kansas, in Topeka today. "I did not wear a silk hat at Ottawa, and a crowd of small boys did not importune me for the job of distributing bills. I think I know the good brother at Ottawa who started the story, and he shall not escape the consequences of his misdeeds, even if he is a lawyer and a member of a church." "But," continued the bishop, "I once was mistaken for an actor without any joke about it. I had gone to Atchison to preach, and was walking down the main street of the town when I was accosted almost effusively by a man who seemed to know me. 'We shook hands and talked about the weather and that sort of thing, and finally he said, 'Where are you tonight?' I want to come around and hear you.' 'I am at Trinity church,' I responded, 'and I will be glad to have you come,' at the same time noticing a look of astonishment or dismay which seemed to creep over his features. 'Goodness gracious!' (or perhaps it was something stronger), said the man. 'You don't mean to tell me they allow that sort of thing at Trinity church?' 'What sort of thing?' I answered, feeling mystified in turn. 'Is there any better place than a church for a sermon?' 'Church? Sermon?' ejaculated the man. 'Say, stranger, I guess I am barking up the wrong tree. I thought you were Joe Gardiner, playing in 'How Her Heart Was Broken; or One Wife Too Many.'"

The bishop added that he was not quite clear as to the name of the play but that it was something equally as far removed from his knowledge and his calling.

All druggists guarantee every bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and will refund the money to any one who is not satisfied after using two-thirds of the contents. This is the best remedy in the world for a gripe, cough, cold, croup and whooping cough and is pleasant and safe to take. It prevents any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia.

THE LIBRARY MAN'S EXPERIENCE.

The young man who has literary aspirations is talking about the trial and disappointments of authorship. "I have now ten stories going the rounds of the magazines," he said. "A month ago I had twelve, but since then I've had two accepted. A funny thing about this is that both of them had been to all the 10-cent magazines, and it was merely on a forlorn hope that I sent them to two high-priced magazines. Very much to my surprise, they were both accepted. I'm a young man, and authors are afflicted in the same way that I have been. They lack the confidence necessary to approach the highest grade magazines, feeling that the tyro's field lies in the direction of the cheaper publications. My own experience would seem to prove this. The two manuscripts were travel-stained and worn, but that didn't seem to make any difference to the editors. After this I shall aim higher and gradually come down in the scale instead of aiming at the low standard first, which I have heretofore done."

HOW TO CURE CROUP.

Mr. R. Gray, who lives near Amenia, Dutchess county, N. Y., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best medicine I have ever used. It is a fine children's remedy for croup, and never fails to cure." When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has developed, it will prevent the attack. This should be borne in mind and a bottle of the Cough Remedy kept at hand ready for instant use as soon as these symptoms appear. For sale by all druggists.

VICE REWARDED.

"The man who gave me that," said the conductor to the only passenger in the car, "must have thought I was a chump."

The passenger examined the lead five cent piece with a smile.

"You're stuck," he said, oracularly, "unless," he added in unscrupulousness, "you can pass it off."

"I wouldn't do that," returned the conductor, polishing the bogus coin on his coat sleeve. "Besides, no one would take it."

"Not alone, but you might slip it in among two or three good ones," suggested the passenger.

The conductor shook his head virtuously as the car began to fill up. An hour later the ex-passenger fished up some small coin to buy a cigar, and the first thing he saw was a lead five-cent piece.

"I gave him a quarter," he mused, "and he gave me four nickels in change."

The man," he added, still musing, "who gave me that, must have thought I was a chump."—FUCK.

THE BEST PLASTER.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with lame back or pains in the side or chest, give it a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. Pain Balm also cures rheumatism. One application gives relief. For sale by all druggists.

A shaft 125 feet, and fitted with track and cars, operated by steam hoist, has been sunk upon the said La Garcia Mining claim to the depth of 309 feet, with drifts east and west at various levels. On some of these drifts veins of ore averaging in width from ten to eighteen inches, have been opened up, assays of which have run as high as $35 a ton, while in sinking the main shaft several pockets of ore were exposed assaying immense values. The character of ore encountered thus has been entirely free milling.

These mining locations are situated in the Vulture mining district, within a few miles of the famous Vulture and other noted mines.
